IRISES

By F. F. ROCKWELL

Introduction by Robert S. Sturtevant, Editor American Iris Society

Iris es are one of the most satisfactory flowers for any garden, large or small. Their color tones, combinations, and blendings are unsurpassed. You can grow different types to bloom from May to July. They are at home in every soil and every garden situation. They winter out-of-doors. This book tells how to select and grow them successfully and guides you in the fascinating sport of hybridizing.

"ARISTOCRATS OF THE GARDEN"

The following twelve Iris can be used anywhere and will be an addition to any Iris Garden. Each variety will be properly labelled. (All rhizomes guaranteed true to name).

AMBASSADUER-94-(Vilmorin)-S. smoky lavender. F. deep red violet, rich orange beard, mid-season.

BALLERINE-94-(Vilmorin)-S. pallid blue violet. F. wisteria violet, veined red brown, lemon yellow beard, mid-season.

LADY FOSTER-85-(Foster) Large, S. Light lavender violet, F. bluish violet fragrant.

MAGNIFICA-91-(Vilmorin) S. light violet blue, F. long deep red violet, orange beard,--of extraordinary size, mid-season.

MARSH MARIGOLD-89-(Bliss) S. good deep yellow. F. red purple with yellow border to match Standard.

MOTHER OF PEARL-88-(Sturtevant) Irridescent Mother of Pearl coloring.

LENT A. WILLIAMSON-90-S. broad soft lavender violet. F. large velvety royal purple, brilliant orange beard--one of the best of the American originations.

NEPTUNE-81-(Yeld) S. pale blue. F. bright pansy purple.

OPERA-87-(Vilmorin) S. red purple, F. purple violet--a prolific grower.

PROSPERO-(Yeld) S. pale lavender. F. rich deep violet purple, tall and ranks with Asia in quality, but a better multiplier.

EMPEROR-(Siberian) Deep violet blue, tall and one of the best.

PERRY'S BLUE-(Siberian) A wonderful shade of sky-blue.
